Hi, Director Anderson!

Here is what I think: Traffic must be kept at a liveable level. Build a monorail from Long Island straight across the Sound continuing along 287 and over the Hudson River all the way into Rockland County. On the Long Island side have a monorail station with sufficient auto parking garages, bus, taxi, and corporate van facilities; have the same kind of facilities on the 287 side in or near White Plains, near Tarrytown, and on the Rockland side. Commuters will be glad to not have to take their cars if the monorail is swift, efficient, accessible, and lower in cost than using a private auto. Commuter auto use would be drastically reduced, and trucks would cause less pollution standing in traffic because there would be far fewer autos on 287. Have a good day!
