Dear Deciders,

As a commuter to NYC via the GWB and the Tappan Zee Bridge(TZB), I think at the least the TZB should be replaced and ideally, as the cost of gas keeps rising and to reduce congestion and pollution, the new project should have commuter trains that take a commuter ALL the way into the city not just to Tarrytown or White Plains. The train could make stops at those sites to pick up more passengers but it should carry the commuters all the way to Grand Central Terminal.

Please keep me informed as to the decision making.

Thank You,

George Gulifield
