To Whom It May Concern;

I am for the replacement of the Tappan Zee bridge instead of repair. That replacement can come in the form of a new bridge or tunnel, but I think it would be a mistake to try to repair a structure that was not designed for a longer life. The new bridge or tunnel should include train service into Rockland County that would extend across Westchester County to connect the Harlem, Hudson and New Haven lines. It may be best for this train service to be a monorail that can be above the existing highways cross Westchester and cross Rockland.

Additionally, I would be strongly against and private involvement in any of these structures. I do not believe the government has the right to sell public property to private partners who will then charge the people for its own property. These partnerships only highlight the failure of government to efficiently manage itself
