I am excited about the plans for the new bridge and mass transit options. I think a train on the Rockland side is a necessity for the growth of the region and New York State. The train should be run down the center of the Thruway as opposed to the south side. A center median track would be easier to build and less expensive due to less of a grade and it would avoid being too close to residential neighborhoods.

Also, the plan should include that wherever there are residential neighborhoods bordering the Thruway/Train Line there need to be sound barriers erected.

Thank you,
