While I do not have any strong feeling as to which form the revised Tappan Zee Bridge should take, I do have a very strong feeling that provision should be made for a public transportation feature be a part of it.

Namely, a rail line running from Rye to Albany. Starting just west of Nyack, the 287 and Thruway Right-of-Ways could be used to contain such a feature. East from Tarrytown is another matter, but it can be worked out.
